ABOUT ME

Product Manager with over a decade of experience driving digital transformation and building products that improve how teams work with complex systems and content.
My work increasingly focuses on leveraging AI and automation to accelerate validation workflows, and enable teams to make faster, better-informed decisions.
My goal is to build products that act as trusted sources of context and insight, helping organizations improve quality delivery, and move faster from idea to validated outcome.
Through continuous experimentation and the integration of emerging technologies, I aim to push the boundaries of how product teams can automate complexity and amplify human decision-making.

OBJECTIVES

My goal is to bridge the gap between business and technology, ensuring seamless digital transformation through SaaS implementation, process optimization, and compliance-driven solutions.
By leveraging Agile methodologies, strategic product management, and cross-functional collaboration, I aim to create scalable, high-impact solutions that enhance business performance and optimize workflows.
